This table is a faithful reproduction of one found in Pennsylvania. It is a larger version and an excellent companion piece to our Queen Anne Breakfast Table. With the leaves out, it will seat four quite comfortably. Leaves down, it makes an excellent hall, gaming or console table. The graceful cabriole legs set this table apart from its imitators.

Choose Cherry or Mahogany.
29"H x 43"L x 14"W when closed. It is 46"W when open.

Thomas Jefferson introduced dumbwaiters to the White House dinners in 1801, after finding them a very convenient way of holding private meals without the disturbance of servants. It has three dish-topped, graduated revolving shelves and the tripod base terminates in ball-and-claw feet. Besides being useful in the dining area, the table is ideal for displaying small collections in any room of the house.

Available in Mahogany or Walnut. The dumbwaiter is 43 ½"H and the tiers are respectively in width, 24", 18", and 13".

The term "pie crust" was not used until the 19th century. When this table was made in the 1700's, it was known as a Tripod Tip-and-Turn Table. The birdcage mechanism allows the table top to revolve or to tip up straight. This not only saves space but enables people to admire the intricately carved top.

Available in Mahogany or Cherry. Diameter of the top is 19 3/4", the table is 28 1/2"H.
